International Rhinoplasty Dissection Course April 15th 2023 – London

ABOUT THE COURSE

Our second rhinoplasty dissection course offers attendees the opportunity to learn both the anatomy of the nose and develop their skills in either preservation, hybrid or structural rhinoplasty techniques with a faculty of demonstrators with extensive experience in both primary and secondary procedures.

Further skills development will involve use of donor costal cartilage to create and stabilise graft material for primary or secondary procedures as well as use of donor fascia lata for contouring of the nasal bridge or nasal tip.

The course will offer 10 participants access to a dissection specimen. It will also offer the opportunity for 10 observers to attend the dissection and observe both preservation and structural techniques.

To assist with skill in understanding nasal shape and surgery planning we are organising in the dissection room access to 3D imaging and simulation using the Vectra system from Canfield Scientific, offering both dissecting participants and observers the opportunity to integrate advanced planning with practical skills.

Places on the course
